Event Title: Poetics Across the Disciplines

Event Description: How do voltas bring verve to video games? What's the connection between enjambments and anthropology? How, across the disciplines, does prosody help us through? Join five poets for a roundtable discussion about how they blend poetry into the classroom with a variety of disciplines beyond creative writing, including game development, anthropology, and gender studies. As the panelists are practicing writers, each will also discuss how interdisciplinary experiences have enriched their poems.

Event Category: Pedagogy

Event Organizer: David Welch

Event Moderator: David Welch

Initial Thoughts: I’m excited to be joined by this diverse group of panelists, who will draw on their own writing as well as their dynamic teaching and community building experiences in classrooms throughout the country throughout today’s discussion. Ours will be a conversation examining poetic practice across worldly contexts as we delve into how to foster inclusion & engender empathy in the classroom.
